

CO. LOUTH DEVELOPMENT PLAN

2021 – 2027

Glenmore, Riverstown, Dundalk, in the Cooley Peninsula is an area of outstanding beauty and is treasured as a tourist destination but during the life time of the last development plan it was spoiled by ribbon development with houses being built that are an eyesore on the landscape.

As a mountain walker, mountain streams are being piped and blocked without permission from neighbours and the local authority as planning permission is not being sought.

In times of heavy rain and stormy conditions, houses and property are being damaged, as a result, there is difficulty getting insurance.

In this new development plan, it is up to the authority to insure that these water courses and streams are kept clear and should not be interfered with it without planning permission from the local authority.
